The Road Not Taken

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, And sorry I could not travel both And be one traveler, long I stood And looked down one as far as I could To where it bent in the undergrowth;

Then took the other, as just as fair, And having perhaps the better claim, because it was grassy and wanted wear; Though as for that the passing there Had worn them really about the same,

And both that morning equally lay in leaves no step had trodden black. Oh, I kept the first for another day! Yet, knowing how way leads on to way, I doubted if I should ever come back.

I shall be telling this with a sigh Somewhere ages and ages hence: Two roads diverged in a wood, and I-I took the one less traveled by, And that has made all the difference.

Allison, We are so proud of you! Love, Dad, Mom, C.J. & Bethany

Love You, Pops

Dear Bunny,

As your mother you have taught me a lot about determination. You have always had the courage to try your hardest even when the situation seems hopeless. This type of attitude will make you successful at whatever you do. You are about to experience the best years of your life. You know the difference between right and wrong. Never be afraid to take a stand. You will come across people who will try to belittle you, remember who you are, where you came from, and the entire family that's behind you. Never forget that it is a positive thing to be different. Don't try to be like everyone else-they are usually just average people who never do anything special in life. You have been the best daughter a parent could hope for. I love you very much.
